

Prepare for Life after Graduation

While all Kennedy Center majors provide a rich interdisciplinary experience that helps students to broaden their knowledge and mastery, successful students recognize a major alone is not enough. Employers are seeking graduates with an education that reaches beyond the classroom.

Discover what you like and don't like and where you want to go by engaging in learning through clubs and leadership roles, campus lectures, and international internships or study abroad. When graduation arrives, you will feel confident to move forward in life.

Meeting with an advisor early in your academic journey will help you to add the experiences to best prepare you for the future.
