The curriculum for this particular program in London will be unique. The directors have prepared over the course of several previous Study Abroad programs to create not just a list of courses, but an educational experience unlike any other you are likely to have at BYU. Central to the uniqueness of this program is an emphasis on a whole life experience. The course-work will consist of classes to satisfy the requirements of the University. However, the classes offered by this program will be completely integrated, experiential, challenging, and fun. What does this mean? We will introduce and immerse you in the history, culture, religion, and lifestyles of Great Britain and the European classical tradition. Each course of study will overlap and link to other study subjects to form a comprehensible, complete, and integrated experience of life in Great Britain, past and present. Integration does not stop there, however. The day trips around England and the travel period in France are designed to mesh with the study in London and enrich the curriculum. On the experiential front, as we study history and art, time will not be spent primarily in a classroom. Rather, you will come face-to-face with the Elgin Marbles and other great works of art and architecture. You will be able to submerge yourself in English history at the Tower of London and participate very directly in the drama of Shakespeare at The Globe, as you come to appreciate British culture in ways that will amaze and delight you.

DATES
26 April–13 June 2016 (7 weeks)

HOUSING
Students and faculty live in the BYU Centre, housed in two adjoining Victorian townhouses in west-central London, near Kensington Gardens and Hyde Park, with easy access to the tube.
