L. Gordon Flake
Executive director, Mansfield Foundation

L. Gordon Flake works to promote understanding and cooperation among the nations and peoples of Asia and the United States. Flake is editor of the companion volumes One Step Back? Reassessing an Ideal Security State for Northeast Asia 2025 (March 2011) and Toward an Ideal Security State for Northeast Asia 2025 (September 2010). He received a BA in Korean with a minor in international relations and an MA from Brigham Young University.

Nicholas Hamisevicz
Director, Research and Academic Affairs, Korean Economic Institute

Nicholas Hamisevicz organizes and speaks on issues related to North Korea and academic outreach. Hamisevicz was a co-author for the Heritage Foundation’s publication Key Asian Indicators: A Book of Charts. He received a BA summa cum laude in communication studies from West Virginia Wesleyan College, an MA in international communication from American University in Washington, D.C., and an MA in international studies from Korea University in Seoul, South Korea.

Jongjoo Lee
Unification attaché, Korean Embassy

Jongjoo Lee’s work encompasses a wide range of topics including inter-Korean exchanges and cooperation, humanitarian aid to North Korea, unification policy planning, and media and public relations. Lee’s major focus is engaging the U.S. policy community and American public regarding North Korean issues, exchanging views with and seeking policy recommendations from this community. She received an MA from the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University.

Karin J. Lee
Executive director, National Committee on North Korea

Karin J. Lee works to promote and facilitate engagement between U.S. citizens and the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea and to reduce tensions and promote peace on the Korean Peninsula and improve the well being of the citizens of the DPRK. Lee has educated congressional staff and members with a special emphasis on DPRK through office visits, writing and distributing position papers, and hill briefings. She received a degree in Chinese Studies with a concentration in intercultural studies from Haverford College.