Vietnam’s economic growth is at an all-time high. What does the future hold as Vietnam takes advantage of foreign investments and exports are on the rise?

His Excellency Pham Quang Vinh became Vietnamese ambassador to the U.S. in February 2015. Vinh has served previously in several positions with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, including as Vietnam’s director general of ASEAN SOM. Twice he served with the Permanent Mission of Vietnam to the UN in New York. Vinh graduated from the University of Foreign Affairs in Hanoi and received a post-graduate degree at Canberra College of Advanced Education in Australia. He and his wife Hoang Bich Lien are the parents of two children.