Jennifer Hogge will provide an overview of her current position as executive director of Engage Now Africa. Hogge will describe her career path, provide career advice, and discuss life lessons.

Engage Now Africa is an NGO striving to end poverty by instilling hope and teaching principles of sustainability. She previously worked as a donor liaison for LDS Philanthropies, as the director of international family policy and as a UN liaison for United Families International in New York, as a consultant with the Middle East Peace Institute, and as a performance auditor for the Utah Legislative Auditor. Hogge received a BA in political science and an MA in public policy from Brigham Young University and a Certificate of Completion from Cambridge University.

Lecture will be followed by a Q&A session.
