Academic Conference Call
The Role of the United Nations

Esther Brimmer, an expert in U.S. foreign policy; United Nations and international organizations; the European Union and transatlantic affairs; global commons; and international human rights, served as the J.B. and Maurice C. Shapiro Professor of International Affairs at the George Washington University’s Elliott School of International Affairs from 2013 through 2015 and is now a professor of practice of international affairs.