

COUNCIL on FOREIGN RELATIONS

ACADEMIC CONFERENCE CALL ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY AND THE AMAZON

Eve Bratman is an assistant professor of environmental studies at Franklin & Marshall College. Bratman's book-in-progress is tentatively entitled Governing the Rainforest: Sustainable Development Politics in the Brazilian Amazon, based on ten years of research concerning the links between development policies, infrastructure, conservation, and human rights. Irina A. Faskianos, vice president for National Program and Outreach at the Council on Foreign Relations, will also participate.

WED | 5 APR 17
10 AM
257 HRCB