

AMA with KC Kern, Working for a Foreign Multinational

THU | 21 JUN 2018
11 AM
257 HRCB

Ask Me Anything about working for a foreign, multinational firm, Asia business, and the value of foreign language and cross-cultural skills.

KC Kern currently works in global business operations support with Samsung in Suwon, Gyeonggi-do, Korea. Kern has experience in consulting, international business, market research, data science, systems architecture, web development, database administration, and digital media and experience with all major operating systems, and in many programming languages, development platforms, and software. He has worked in Seoul, San Francisco, Seattle, Boston, Salt Lake City, and North Carolina's Research Triangle with Friendemic, Accenture, and for the BYU Kennedy Center. Kern received a BA in information systems from BYU and an MBA from the Sloan School of Management at MIT. He has lived in five countries on three continents and speaks French and Korean.

Foreign Service
Student Organization

KENNEDY CENTER