

Experiential Learning Funds Application Ancient Near Eastern Studies

Ancient Near Eastern Studies students are encouraged to participate in an approved, substantive experience that augments their BYU education. The ANES program has some funds to support Experiential Learning projects that students propose. Proposals that make a strong case for their connection to ANES and that provide a detailed travel and supply budget will more likely receive support.

Name:	BYU ID#:
Email:	Major(s) and Minor(s):

List some ANES classes you have taken:

1.	4.
2.	5.
3.	6.

Describe any participation in ANES activities (leadership, membership, volunteering, attendance at activities) and attendance at ANES events (100 words or fewer):

Title of your experiential learning adventure:	Faculty Mentor / Program Director:
Location:	Dates:

Please have your program director send an email to cecilia_peek@byu.edu to verify her or his willingness to work with you. If you have already been accepted to an internship, study abroad, or field school, send the acceptance letter/notification to the ANES Coordinator's email address above.

Describe the relationship between this adventure and the field of ANES (175 words or fewer):

Describe any specific outcomes you believe will result from your experience (ANES course requirements, capstone research, honors thesis, publishable article, conference paper delivery, creative work, etc.) (150 words or fewer):

Provide a detailed budget. Write N/A for any category that does not apply. Where possible, use the spaces provided to be specific about where and how you will travel, how many days you will need food and lodging, what supplies you will need, what else you will need to pay for, etc.

Program Costs (BYU ISP Office estimate)
Transportation:
Lodging:
Food:
Supplies:
Other: Forms and Applications
TOTAL

Indicate other sources of funding you have applied for to support this experiential learning adventure: