

Adam D. Ford is the general counsel at ZYTO Technologies, a biocommunication company that develops software and hardware to monitor personal health. Ford received a JD from Duke University School of Law in 2001 and completed an intensive course in Arabic at the Defense Language Institute in 1998. BA: international relations, 1996