

LSAT Testing

Because it is unclear whether the LSAT will be administered in the near term, we are reaching out to let students know there are other options to apply to BYU Law. We are still accepting applications under our LSAT Exemption. To qualify, students must have a 3.8 GPA or higher and scored in the 85th percentile or higher on their college entrance exam. For the ACT, this requires a score of 26 or 27 depending on the administration.

We also accept the GRE in lieu of the LSAT. Our priority deadline has passed, but we will continue to accept applications until Tuesday, 30 June.
