

Midnight Traveler

This Sundance-award-winning film provides a rare first-person account of the refugee experience and its costs. An Afghan filmmaker and his family seeking safety from the Taliban detail their long journey across dangerous borders and hostile countries filming their plight only on their smartphones.

Emelie Madhavian, the producer and writer for Midnight Traveler, will be lecturing and taking questions from the audience after the film screening.