

Ramy Adly—Oud Virtuoso

Cairo-born, DC-based Ramy Adly is a masterful Oud performer, composer, teacher, and founder of the innovative School of Oud Online, LLC. A product of rigorous training, Adly brings tenderness, intelligence, and vivacity to the age-old lute-like instrument. He has performed and lectured around the Middle East and North America, from the Library of Alexandria, Kennedy Center to cathedrals, universities and concert halls. Also, he has appeared on Alhurra TV, Good Morning Egypt, the BBC, and in the Washington Post, among others.

10:00 a.m. Lecture/Demonstration
HBLL auditorium

1:00 p.m. Lecture/Demonstration
UVU Library Auditorium FL120

7:30 p.m. Concert
HBLL auditorium

FREE ADMISSION

Sponsored by the BYU School of Music, the BYU's Middle East/Arabic Studies, UVU's Humanities Program and Religious Studies and Ethics Program.