

KENNEDY RESEARCH FELLOWS

Have you conducted research on an international topic and want to share it with a wider audience? If so, consider applying to become a Kennedy Research Fellow!

The David M. Kennedy Center for International Studies invites BYU students to apply to become Kennedy Research Fellows. Students accepted into the program will be given the opportunity to present their research as part of the Kennedy Center's ongoing lecture series.

While all substantive, original academic research will be considered, preference will be given to research that is international in scope or topic and that corresponds with the selected theme of an ongoing or future lecture series.

Lecture Series Themes

- Challenges to Democracy (fall 2020). Submission due date: 20 November 2020
- Race: Myths and Realities (winter 2021). Submission due date: 19 March 2021

See kennedy.byu.edu/kennedy-research-fellows/ for details.