

TROUBLE IN PARADISE? REFLECTIONS ON MAURITIAN DEMOCRACY

WEDNESDAY, 14 NOVEMBER
NOON
238 HRCB

Padmini Devi Coopamah

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF GOVERNMENT AND INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS, SWEET BRIAR COLLEGE

Padmini Devi Coopamah, an assistant professor of government and international affairs at Sweet Briar College, specializes in the political and economic development of sub-Saharan Africa in the post-colonial period. Coopamah's current research project, which focuses on public-private partnerships in development on the African continent, is an off-shoot of her dissertation, which examined the various ways in which African states responded to the HIV/AIDS pandemic. A native of Quatre-Bornes, Mauritius, she received a BA in French from the University of Mauritius and an MA and a PhD in political science from the University of Arizona