

EUROPE: BEYOND RELIGION . . . AND POLITICS?

Ralph Hancock, professor of political science and
Frederick Mark Gedicks, Guy Anderson
Chair and professor of law

WEDNESDAY, 6 MARCH
4:00 P.M.
238 HRCB

Ralph C. Hancock is a professor of political science at Brigham Young University. Hancock is president of the John Adams Center for the Study of Faith, Philosophy, and Public Affairs, an independent educational foundation. His most recent book is the Responsibility of Reason: Theory and Practice in a Liberal-Democratic Age (2011) and his Calvin and the Foundations of Modern Politics was published in a new edition in 2011. Hancock has also translated numerous works from French. He received a BA summa cum laude in political science from Brigham Young University and an MA and a PhD in political science from Harvard University.

Frederick Mark Gedicks is the Guy Anderson Chair and a professor of law at Brigham Young University. Gedicks teaches constitutional law and freedom of religion, and has published and lectured widely in the U.S. and Europe on the nature and role of religion in contemporary public life. His publications include "Incorporation of the Establishment Clause Against the States: A Logical, Textual, and Historical Account," Indiana Law Journal (forthcoming winter 2013), "God of Our Fathers, Gods for Ourselves: Fundamentalism and Postmodern Belief," William & Mary Bill of Rights Journal (2010), and the book Freedom of Religion: Cases and Materials (with Robert Tuttle, forthcoming 2013). Gedicks received a BA cum laude in economics from Brigham Young University and a JD from the University of Southern California.

CENTER
for the study of EUROPE