

BOOK OF THE SEMESTER PANEL

DAVID M.
KENNEDY CENTER
FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

WEDNESDAY, 7 MARCH 2012
NOON
238 HRCB

JOIN THE DISCUSSION.

Books and ideas matter. For eight years the Kennedy Center has invited notable authors to discuss important global topics from different disciplinary perspectives as part of our Book of the Semester series. We aim to foster discussion and dialogue across campus and in the community on the issues of our time—understanding important areas such as China, Brazil, Afghanistan, or Europe, debating ideas like “just war” and “soft power,” and exploring important topics such as Islam, the role of sports, or the rise of Christianity in the global south. We encourage members of the university community to read the book, attend the panel discussion, and to expand your world.

MODERATOR

Christopher “Kit” Lund, professor of Portuguese

PANEL

Vanessa Fitzgibbon, assistant professor of Portuguese

Fernando S. Fonseca, associate professor of structural engineering

Mark L. Grover, Latin American and African studies librarian

Cynthia Halliday, managing director, Global Management Center

Shawn W. Miller, associate professor of history

