

What do 1814, 1941, and 2001 have in common?

AUTHOR LECTURE

John Lewis Gaddis

Robert A. Lovett Professor of History and Political Science, Yale University

Wednesday
15 March
3:00 P.M.
JSB Auditorium

John Lewis Gaddis is a leading Cold War historian and widely respected commentator on international affairs and American foreign policy. This widely discussed book presents a serious and historical framework in which to discuss issues of unilateralism, preemption, and hegemony post 9/11.

Kennedy Center Book of the Semester

PANEL DISCUSSION

Five BYU faculty perspectives about the ideas presented by Gaddis.

22 February

3:00 P.M.

238 HRCB

Earl H. Fry
Professor of political science

Andrew Johns
Assistant professor
of history

Valerie M. Hudson
Professor of political science

Alan F. Keele
Professor of German literature

Mark I. Choate
Assistant professor of history

