

Global Awareness Lecture
Fall 2007

Finding Some of the Lost Tribes of Israel

K. Lawson Younger, Jr.

Professor of Old Testament, Semitic languages, and Ancient Near Eastern history, Trinity Evangelical Divinity School

Wednesday, 10 October

NOON

238 HRCB

K. Lawson Younger, Jr. is a professor of Old Testament, Semitic languages, and Ancient Near Eastern history at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School in Deerfield, Illinois. Younger is the author of Ancient Conquest Accounts: A Study of Near Eastern and Biblical History Writing and coeditor of the Canon in Comparative Perspective. He has edited numerous publications, including the Context of Scripture, Volume I: Canonical Compositions from the Biblical World, Volume II: Monumental Compositions from the Biblical World, and the forthcoming Volume III: Archival Documents from the Biblical World.

Younger has been named a Rotary Foundation Fellow at the Hebrew University, Tyndale House Fellow at Cambridge University, and National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Fellow at Yale University. Prior to joining the faculty at Trinity, he served as a professor of biblical studies at LeTourneau University and also taught at Sheffield University. Younger received a bachelor of theology cum laude from Florida Bible College, a master of theology with honors from Dallas Theological Seminary, and a PhD from Sheffield University.

Ancient Near Eastern Studies Lecture

Biblical Studies and the Comparative Method

Thursday, 11 October

11:00 A.M.

238 HRCB

<http://kennedy.byu.edu>

kcpublications@byu.edu

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY
DAVID M. KENNEDY CENTER
FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES