

Latin American Studies Lecture
Spring 2007

Latter-day Saints Under Siege: The Unique Experience of Nicaraguan Mormons

Henri Gooren

Researcher and coordinator, Center IIMO for Intercultural Theology at Utrecht University

Tuesday, 29 May
1:00 P.M.
238 HRCB

Henri Gooren is a researcher and coordinator for the program Conversions Careers and Culture Politics in Pentecostalism: A Comparative Study in Four Continents at the Center IIMO for Intercultural Theology at Utrecht University. Gooren has researched Mormonism, Pentecostalism, Protestantism, and Roman Catholicism in Latin America, with a focus on conversion. He recently completed a book, Conversion Careers: Why People Become and Remain Religiously Active, and is currently writing a book dealing with competition for members between various religious groups in Nicaragua: charismatic Catholics, classical Pentecostals, Neo-Pentecostals, and Mormons. From 1999 until 2004, he was a (senior) staff member at the Social Science Research Council of the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research (NWO) in The Hague. Gooren studied cultural anthropology at Utrecht University (The Netherlands), specializing in religion, Latin America, and development issues. He received a PhD in anthropology in Utrecht.