

Mongolia Today

His Excellency Ravdan Bold

Mongolian Ambassador to the U.S.

Monday, 9 May

NOON

238 HRCB

Ravdan Bold became ambassador of Mongolia to the United States in 2003. Bold previously served as executive secretary of the National Security Council of Mongolia (1997–2003), adviser to the Parliament and director of the Institute of Strategic Studies (1996–97), and deputy director of the Mongolian Central Intelligence Agency (1996). He also held various posts in the Institute of Strategic Studies (1991–96), the Ministry of Defense (1989–91), the Embassy of Mongolia in Japan (1985–89), and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (1984–85). He attended the Defense Resources Management Training of Naval Postgraduate School in the United States (1994), the Military Diplomatic School in Moscow (1978–80), and the Military Institute in Ulaanbaatar (1973–77). He and his wife have two children.