

New York Times Lecture

A 'Low-Carb' Diet for the Planet

Matthew L. Wald

Reporter, Washington Bureau, NYT

Monday, 6 October

NOON

238 HRCB

Matthew L. Wald covers transportation for the New York Times's Washington bureau, specializing in aviation and highway safety. Wald also writes about various environmental and energy issues. Before joining the Washington bureau in September 1996, he covered transportation for the metropolitan desk for three years. From October 1993 until February 1998, he covered energy and environment for Business Day. Since joining the Times in October 1976 as a news clerk in the newspaper's Washington bureau, Wald has worked in New York, Connecticut, and Boston covering the metropolitan desk, housing and nuclear power until he became a national correspondent in 1985. During the summer of 1976, he worked as a reporter for the Washington Post, following his graduation from Brown University with a BA in urban studies. While attending Brown as a National Merit Scholar, he served as senior editor of the Brown Daily Herald, the campus newspaper, and as campus correspondent for the New York Times. Wald is married to Wilma Schiller.

This lecture is sponsored by the New York Times Knowledge Network.

The New York Times
KNOWLEDGE NETWORK
INSPIRING THOUGHT

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY
DAVID M. KENNEDY CENTER
FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

 <http://kennedy.byu.edu>