

COUNCIL on FOREIGN RELATIONS

ACADEMIC CONFERENCE CALL THE FUTURE OF THE ARCTIC

Lawson W. Brigham is the Distinguished Professor of Geography and Arctic Policy at the University of Alaska–Fairbanks. Brigham’s research interests are polar environmental change; marine policy and ocean security issues; satellite remote sensing of sea ice and permafrost; marine navigation systems; coastal oceanography; and polar environmental management and sustainable use.

Background Reading: The Emerging Arctic, Future Perspective: The Maritime Arctic in 2050, Changes in the Arctic: Background and Issues for Congress

THU | 19 NOV 15
NOON
257 HRCB