

ISIS, AL QAEDA, AND TERRORIST THREATS TO THE U.S. AT HOME AND ABROAD

War and terrorism are the topics of this timely discussion, which will focus on the threats to the U.S. on home and foreign soil.

Eric Schmitt has covered military and national security affairs for twenty years. Schmitt currently is a senior writer for the New York Times, covering domestic and international terrorism issues, occasionally in the fray reporting from Iraq, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Mali, and Southeast Asia. He is co-author of Counterstrike: The Untold Story of America's Secret Campaign against Al Qaeda.

Schmitt's visit is a benefit from the partnership between BYU and the New York Times, which provides access to current events and editorial content for students and faculty. You can pick up the New York Times at the Kennedy Center, Monday–Friday in the morning.
