

Playing at Nation: Soccer, Race, and National Identity in Argentina

Thursday, April 7
11:00 am
B002 JFSB

Dr. Jeffrey Richey is an Assistant Professor of History at Weber State University where he specializes in the social and cultural history of modern Latin America. His work explores the impact of organized soccer and the popular sports press in nation formation and the dissemination of certain racial ideologies in early twentieth-century Argentina.