Aimee McConkie will provide an overview of her current position with Foxley & Pignanelli. McConkie will describe her career path, provide career advice, and discuss life lessons.

She is an associate at Foxley & Pignanelli, a bipartisan government relations and lobbyist firm, and oversees the day-to-day operations of several associations that include managing membership, communications, government and public relations, event planning, and bookkeeping, plus board and committee management. McConkie enjoys community advocacy work, having launched LABELED, a four-day film festival to break the stigma of mental health, in 2017, and Utah Venture Outdoors in 2015, a summer festival series in Millcreek to educate and encourage residents to participate in Utah's recreational opportunities.
