WHAT COULD GO WRONG IN EUROPE AND ASIA

Are you wondering about whether Russia is a threat to global U.S. interests? Or confused about the future of the EU? Or worried about the North Korean nuclear weapons program? Join BYU faculty as they discuss the current issues making the headlines in Russia, Europe, and East Asia.

Celeste E. Beesley researches the political externalities of global economic integration and has a particular interest in post-Soviet politics.

Wade A. Jacoby is Mary Lou Fulton Professor of Political Science and has written on the politics of Western Europe (mostly Germany), Eastern Europe (mostly the Visegrad states), the EU, and NATO.

Kirk W. Larsen researches modern East Asian history and East Asian foreign relations.
