The Post-Engagement US-China Relationship

New Economic Realities as Washington and Beijing Diverge

Adam Lysenko is a Senior Analyst at Rhodium Group, an economic research firm with decades of experience advising CEOs, portfolio managers, philanthropists and policy leaders. Led by co-founder Daniel Rosen, Rhodium has one of the largest independent China research and advisory teams in the private sector with a consistent track record of producing insightful and path-breaking analysis.

Adam's research focuses on China's international trade and investment flows and related policy dynamics. He fills both client-facing and primary research roles, leveraging his background in finance, economics and quantitative analysis. His published work has been featured in the Washington Post, Politico, China Daily and other news and academic media in both the United States and China.

Prior to joining Rhodium, Adam spent several years in buy-side institutional asset management roles in the Mountain West overseeing fixed income and alternative assets portfolios. Adam is a Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) charterholder and graduated Magna Cum Laude from Brigham Young University with a degree in Economics. He has lived abroad in both China and Taiwan and is fluent in Mandarin Chinese.
