

GAMES FOR GOOD? HOW DIPLOMACY SIMULATIONS FOSTER COOPERATION AND EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING

BYU sponsors many diplomacy simulations: Model United Nations is the best known, but the Kennedy Center is also involved with the Model European Union, Model Arab League, and Model Organization of American States. BYU faculty directly involved in these programs discuss how diplomacy simulations benefit students while helping to build bridges between cultures.

Heather Belnap is an associate professor of art history and coordinator of European Studies.

Cory Leonard is an associate director of the Kennedy Center.

James Toronto is an associate professor of Arabic.

Evan Ward is an associate professor of history.
