If COVID impacts the ability to travel to India, another country such as Morocco will be substituted.

This seminar is a sharply focused, four-and-a-half-week experience sponsored by the Marriott School's Global Business Center. Classes will be held at the Said Business School at the University of Oxford, taught by Oxford professors, where students will learn the skills, theory, and practice of global business and leadership. The seminar will give students a chance to work on a real-life, resume-building global project(s) for businesses based in India. Participants in the program will also be exposed to Oxford’s rich history and culture as well as have the opportunity to take nearby excursions during free time. The group will travel to Stonehenge, Bath, the Salisbury Cathedral, Canterbury, London, and other sites as part of the program.

Students will then fly to Hyderabad, India, to continue the project(s) in country. These projects will be more than just business projects; they will be projects that help local micro-enterprises or growing businesses improve, thus improving lives and economy. In India, the group will visit Golconda Fort, the Charminar District in Hyderabad, and then will travel to see the Agra Fort in Agra, the spice market of Delhi, the Amer fort and step wells in Jaipur, and of course, the Taj Mahal. One of the best ways to experience India for the first time is with a group leader who is experienced and can help navigate the amazing culture, this is one of those trips.

The program is open to all majors. Students can expect to develop real-life international business, marketing, strategy, and global experience in both developed and developing countries.
